Join us with Dr. Jason Rosenfeld, principal investigator of implementation for Bexar County's Health Confianza health literacy project. In this session, attendees will learn about the stigma associated with men's health as it relates to preventive health care, especially during the COVID-19 pandemic.

About the Presenter:

Dr. Jason Rosenfeld is a public health professional with over 20 years of experience designing, implementing and evaluating international and domestic community health education and behavior change programs. He currently serves in leadership positions for local, national and international organizations. A few of these organizations include the Bexar County Community Health Worker Partnership, the Mayor's Fitness Council, Governing Council of the Texas Public Health Association, the Consortium of Universities for Global Health's Global Operations Committee and co-chair of the Education Workgroup for Metro Health's COVID-19 Community Response and Equity Coalition.
